Are Still Guessing

No News From China But Correspondents Indulge in Many Conjectures.

British Government Determined to Have Sufficient Troops on the Spot.

General Gaselee States That Allies Marched Through the Forbidden C.ty.

London, Sept. 6.—(4 a.m.)—Sir Alfred Gaselee's despatch, which shows that the situation in Pekin was unchanged on August 29, is the only Chinese news this morning. The cancellation of the order holding back the 4th Indian brigade is regarded as important. It shows that whatever the outcome of the Russian policy, the British government is determined to have sufficient troops on the spot adequate to protect British interests. Considerable significance is attached the statement by the Journal de St. Petersburg as possibly indicating a modification of Russian policy. This paper is the organ of the Russian foreign office, its editor being a councillor of state. It is noted while the Journal de St. Petersburg announces Russia's determination to maintain the solidarity of the powers, it only mentions the withdrawal of the nainteers and not of the troops to Tien Tsin. It is believed that the powers might agree to such a modification of the original Russian proposal.

The Vienna correspondent of the Times, discussing the situation, declares that Japan has a strong disposition to act in harmony with the United States in the Chinese question.

A Shanghai despatch announces that German troops will land there to-day (Thursday), Curiously enough, they will be located in the barracks adjoining the residence of Li Hung Chang.

United States Consul Goodnow, according to the Daily News, says there never was any necessity for landing troops at Shanghai.

According to a Hongkong despatch, dated yesterday, Canton is more disturbed. Native shops dealing in foreign goods have been looted and sinister rumors prevail. The German cruiser Schwalbe has gone to Amey.

London, Sept. 5.—The British admirally has issued Vice-Admiral Seymour's detailed report of the experiences of the first Pekin relief expedition. It is good reading, but embraces nothing not previously known.

Gen. Sir Alfred Gaselee, commander of the British troops at the Chinese capital, the statement by the Journal de St. Pe tion advanced by Russia. On the whole, the general tendency of the responses is such as to give entire satisfaction here as to the course of the negotiations. The satisfactory progress of negotiations along these lines has had the effect of directing attention to the personality of stoke. along these lines has had the effect of directing attention to the personality of the envoys who probably will represent the powers in China in the final settle-the envoys who probably will represent the powers in China in the final settlement. The impression prevails here that Mr. Conger is eminently fitted for such a task on the part of the United States. Mr. Rockhill's name is mentioned as an alternative in case Mr. Conger does not care to remain in Pekin to participate in the settlement.

If the present state of affairs is protracted until the arrival there of Field Marshal Count von Waldersee, which should occur in about ten days or a fortnight, it is not to be doubted that the government of Germany will endeavor to have all the negotiations with the Chinese government conducted through that officer as a representative not of Germany lone, but of all the powers.

The German foreign office appears to be active in furthering the negotiations and quite a number of messages have passed between Washington and Berlin, Those persons mostly to have a correct understanding of Germany's attitude look for the suggestion of a compromise or middle course, which will be be neither an acceptance nor, a rejection of the Russian proposal, but will be such a sate to-day to C. be active in furthering the negotiations and quite a number of messages have passed between Washington and Berlin, I. Those persons mostly to have a correct understanding of Germany's attitude look for the suggestion of a compromise or middle course, which will be be neither an acceptance nor a rejection of the Russian proposal, but will be such a satisfactory middle ground that all the powers, including Russia, can agree to it. In another diplomatic quarter the strong belief is expressed that the requisite compromise will be found by China's re-establishment of a government and naming peace commissioners. Official intimations have been received at Washington that steps are now being taken towards the appointment of such a peace commission, including Li Hung Chang, and Prince Ching, though reports also have named Yung Ku and Hsi Tung in place of the two pacific viceroys: But, while there is doubt as to the personnel of the commission, it is quite generally accepted among officials that some such a move on the part of China has matured and will take form in Washington very soon. In that event, it is believed by diplomats that the entire status of negotiations between the powers might be changed and that Russia no longer would feel impelled to insist upon the withdrawal of her minister and troops from Fekin, as all these matters would be the subject for the commission itself to deal with. It is pointed out also that in the six days since the Russian-American notes were given to the world, the sentiment has been growing steadily in favor of continuing the presence of the troops at Pekin.

In view of the declarations made in the Pekin.

In view of the declarations made in the United States reply to Russia, some question has arisen as to the course open to this country in its compromise or change in the present diplomatic status.

London, Sept. 5.—The British admiralty has issued Vice-Admiral Seymour's detailed report of the experiences of the first Pekin relief expedition. It is good reading, but embraces nothing not previoucly known.

Gen. Sir Alfred Gaselee, commander of the British troops at the Chinese capital, wires as follows from Pekin, August 29, to Lord George Hamilton, secretary of state for India:

"The allies marched through the Forbidden City yesterday, August 28, the British had third place in the procession, the Russians and Japanese being in greater strength."

Shanghai, Sept. 4.—About 1,500 more British Indian troops and 1,000 camp followers have landed at this port.

Washington, Sept. 5.—Within the last twenty-four hours the United States government has received from its representatives at the foreign capitals much material information in regard to the attitude of the powers on the Russian proposal to evacuate Pekin.

It is stated authoritatively that if there was at any time a prospect of a serious international clash, this has been very largely, if not entirely, removed by the harmonious character of the communications the several governments are making. The exact nature of the response is not made apublic by the state department is not made and on the product and other material, under the content of the provision made for the provision made in the provision made in the following: "We recognize with approval the action of the government in the provision made in Canadian origin, smelted in Canada, of lead to content of the provision made in Canadian origin, smelted in Canada, of lead to content of the provision made in Canadian origin, smelted in Canada, of the government in the provision made in Canadian origin, smelted

Amid every evidence of enthusiasm, W. A. Galliher, of Nelson, was tendered the unanimous nomination, which he accepted. The convention was address-by Senator Templeman, Messrs. Curtis, McLagan and Maxwell.

Serious Charge Made By a Winnipeg Paper Against the Liberals.

Hugh John Macdonald May Resign to Enter the Dominion Contest.

Premier Marchand of Quebec Improving-Lieut. Governor of Manitoba,

Winnipeg, Sept. 5 .- The Telegram nakes charges that the voters' lists for Dominion constituencies prepared at Ottawa have been tampered with, large portions of the Manitoba division being placed in the wrong Dominion constituencies by changing the boundaries. The Liberals say in reply to this that the deputy returning officers have power to adjust the boundary lines of their divisions, and that the boundaries of the constituencies will be precisely the same s at the last Dominion elections.

as at the last Dominion elections.

Conservative gossip has it to-night that Hugh John Macdonald is to retire from the Manitoba premiership at once to enter Dominion politics, and that he will be nominated at the Conservative convention for Brandon to-morrow to oppose Mr. Sifton, R. P. Boblin, the report says, is slated to succeed Mr. Macdonald as premier, and William Garland will be taken into the cabinet as an additional member.

At McLeod to-day the Alberta Conservatives adopted a resolution asking Mr. Macdonald to re-enter Dominion politics, with a view to assuming the leadership on the retirement of Sir Charles Tupper.

Quebec, Sept. 5.—Premier Marchand is still improving, and his recovery now seems certain. He is resting easier.

Ottawa, Sept. 5.—A short meeting of the council was held to-day, at which the appointment of Col. McMillan as lieutenant-governor of Manitoba in succession to Patterson was made.

Twice Burghers Tried to Rush the Position But Failed Entirely,

Maseru, Basutoland, Sept. 5.—The Beers left Ladybrand last evening. They looted the stores and took all the horses, including the cavalry mounts. British casualties were five wounded. Capetown, Sept. 5.—The siege of Lady brand has been raised after several desperate attempts to capture the town and garrison of 150 British troops. The Boers who attacked Ladybrand are estimated to have numbered over 2,000 men. The British were summoned to surrender on September 2, but refused, and from that time on were subject to continual cannon and rifle fire. The burghers twice tried to rush the British position. Probably the approach of a relief force saved the little garrison.

Young Lady Minstrels Again Score a Success at the Theatre.

The Dalley's Open on Monday The Miller Concert at Institute Hall.

Miss Marrack and Mr. Elmer Lissenden, though their bank accounts may not be materially increased owing to the receipts from the two performances of the Young Ladies' minstrels which in a second night delighted Victorians at the theatre last evening, have yet reason to be proud of their efforts. The performances which the amateur company gave under their management were most meritorious. An extra on the programme was a recitation by Mr. Phillips of "How Bill Adams won the Battle of Waterloo." Mr. Phillips told the story in a most amusing fashion, and was loudly applauded. Ray Southard in his different turns was seen at his best, and his professional training made him show up as a white coon among a lot of black ones in the amateur performance. The show on the whole was a good one.

The Dailey stock company will open their engagement at the Victoria theatre on Monday, and will produce plays nightly until the 15th. Their performances are said to be among the best of the popular-priced companies.

Miss Edith J. Miller and her associate artistes are to give a grand concert here on Saturday evening, under the auspices of Col. Gregory and the officers of the Fifth Regiment, R. C. R. The regiment's band will contribute an opening selection, an interlude and finale. Miss Miller and her associates are well spoken of by the Ifastern press. THE MINERAL

Extensive Discoveries of This Valuable Stone in the Province of Ontario,

From Montreal Witness. Corundum, as the crystalline oxide of aluminium is called, is one of the most interesting of minerals. It received the name of corundum about one hundred years ago, but the names of its gemvarieties, sapphire and ruby, had been in mame of cornation about one industry years ago, but the names of its gemvaricties, sapphire and ruby, had been in use from a much earlier time, and the name corivindum, or corrivendum, had been given to it as early as 1714. In the Burma corundum every shade of color, from white to the highly-prized deep crimson or pigeon's blood, is found, and the corundum there is named according to color instead of composition or system of crystallization, the red variety is known as oriental ruby, the blue as oriental sapphire, the yellow as oriental topaz, the purple as oriental amethyst, and the green as oriental emerald.

The first discovery of corundum in Ontario was made by the late Dr. Sterry Hunt, fifty-three years ago, in the county of Lanark. It does not appear, however, that this discovery received further attention, and it was practically re-discovered there three years ago. The largest known deposits of corundum in Ontario was discovered twenty-five years ago in the township of Raglan, Renfrew county; but in this case twenty years elapsed before the mineral was identified. Mr. Archibald Blue, of the Ontario bureau of mines, says, "According to Robillard's story (a farmer upon whose land the corundum was discovered), he was returning with his little daughter from a cranberry marsh on the wide flats of North river, and, in climbing a hill which rises about five hundred feet above the river, he sat down upon a large boulder to rest. In telling me the story, Robillard said: "Annie was kneeling behind me and picked up a queer-shaped stone, and, showing it to me, said it looked like the stopper of a cruet-bottle. It was just like that; and I wondered what fool of a man had gone to work and whittled it out. Then I looked at the stone where I was sitting, and, bless you, sir, it was paved with cruet-stoppers!" Afterwards corundum was discovered in Carlow county.

The first geological reconnaissance of the district in which corundum has been found was made in 1853, and forty years elapsed before another attempt was made

The Steamers Amur and Tees Sall North Heavily Laden With Freight.

Vast Amount of Goods Going North-Boscowitz Leaves For Naas.

The rush of freight to the North cor tinues from this city. The Amur and Tees carried North close on 1,200 tons. They had as much as could by any means be crowded on them, for yesterday was the last day given by the railway company for the loading of through freight here, and the merchants were eager to get all the space that could be allotted to them. They would have taken much more had the vessels been able to give it. From now on the merchants with have to pay local freight rates for Dawson and Yukon shipments, for with yesterday's loading on the Amur and Tees the through rates stopped. Cargoes will, therefore, it is reasoned, not be so large for the balance of the mouth as they have been since the beginning or August.

they have been since the beginning of August.

In August the several vessels from Victoria on the Skagway run carried in all over 4,500 tons of groceries and other merchandise from the warehouses of local dealers to Skagway in transit to the Northern metropolis. The Amur did not get away on her voyage North until about daylight this morning, for at an early hour this morning, for at an early line the scene of animal the worked. They were hauling on to the C. P. N. liner the most valuable carge. The vessel has yet carried North. It was valued at $82,000. This included casks of whiskey from Pither & Leiser for Col. Williams, owner of the steamer Chiford Sifton and trader, of 12,000 gallons and 2,000 gallons for S. Simpson, to say nothing of the many barrels of beer and cases of fancy liquors. As usual, the greater part of the cargo consisted of groceries, an assortiment which was stocked many stores with all the many and varied lines which grocers carry. There were, too, shipments of have a grant of the cargo consisted of groceries, an assortiment which was stocked many stores with all the many and varied lines which grocers carry. There were, too, shipments of have a many and varied lines which groceries and the great many stores with all the many and varied lines which groceries and and Mrs. Further were, too, carried a big cargo—or, at least she will have one when she leaves Vancouver this afternoon. She took on board here a quantity of lumber from the Sayward mills, and considerable general freight, mostly groceries. Both steamers call at Vancouver to-day, the Tees to fill up her cargo, and the Amur was an eagle for the the Tees to fill up her cargo, and the Amur will take on board 45 head of cattle.

Included in the shipments sent North on the Amur was an eagle for the Eagles of Dawson, which was sent to them by the local aeric. The shipment of the bird recalls the fact of the loss of the eagle which was the Danube's mascot for some time, and which is now on the river steamer Gleaner in the North. The eagle was a brass-colored one mounted on the roof of the pilot-house of the Danube, and the sight of it used to bring the Americans along when the steamer was lying in a foreign port. It was, however, not mounted on the principle of "conning" the would-be passengers into the belief that the vessel was an American steamer, but got there in an accidental way. It has a history. It was first mounted of the old steamer Wilson G. Hunt, which in years gone by plied on the Sound and to the Fraser, and after a long service on that vessel; which also plied on the Fraser, the eagle was moved here and there until when mouth during the first year of the Klondike excitement, the brass eagle was taken up by the Danube on one of her trips to St. Michael to be placed on the river steamer. It remained on her until she was sold to Pat Galvin and others, gers into the belief that the vessel was an American steamer, but got there in an accidental way. It has a history. It was first mounted of the old steamer Wilson G. Hunt, which in years gone by plied on the Sound and to the Fraser, and after a long service on that vessel it was transferred to the steamer Willic Irving. On the wreck of that vessel, which also plied on the Fraser, the eagle was moved here and there until when the Yukoner was built at the Yukon mouth during the first year of the Klondike excitement, the brass eagle was taken up by the Danube on one of her trips to St. Michael to be placed on the river steamer. It remained on her until, she was sold to Pat Galvin and others, and then it was removed and put on the and then it was removed and put on the Danube, to be brought down to this city. The question arose as to where it was to be stowed, and Capt. John Irving settled the matter by asking the men to get some boards and nail it to the pilothouse of the steamer, where it remained until a short time before that vessel came to grief near Union.

The lists of passengers on the steamers are practically as given in the Colonist of yesterday.

THE BOSCOWITZ SAILS.

Columbia.

A Large Cargo For the Ports of British here

Steamer Boscowitz, which sailed this morning for Nans and way ports of northern British Columbia, was well filled with general freight, as she took as well as that contracted for by her owners, the freight offered for the steamer Tees, which was to have gone to the Northern ports, but which, in order that the freight for Yukon points might be rushed, goes direct to Skagway from Vancouver. Arrangements were made by the C. P. N. Co. for the carrying of that freight by the Boscowitz. Included in the cargo of the Boscowitz unsuled in the cargo of the Boscowitz was a big shipment of lumber, which was loaded last night at the Sawyard mills. She had few passengers.

THE COAL TRADE.

Coal Freight Rates From Australia Continue Fair—Coal is King.

In his weekly review of the coal market, J. W. Harrison, the coal and metal broker of San Francisco, says: This week there have been five arrivals of coal from Washington with 13,860 tons; four from British Columbia, 12,507 tons; three from Australia, 7,685 tons; two from Oregon, 1,150 tons; total, 35,202 tons. This fully supplies all immediate requirements for the moment, as we have had 106,823 tons delivered within the past three weeks. If we can keep up this average, there will be no complaints as to fuel supplies, as we will be enabled to put away a reserve in our tyards for future, winter demand. Prices are steady, as importers are not anxious sellers and feel assured that present, quotations will assuredly be sustained. Freight rates from Australia are firm, and coal has been further advanced for early loading; as a matter of fact, some popular grades cannot be had for several months, as the collieries have been apoplexy several days ago.

Freight Rush

largely over-sold. Only outside brands are procurable for loading this year, and they are held at an advance of fully two shillings per ton. Every vessel arriving in Australia must wait at least sixty days to secure her cargo, and for two or three of the leading brands, fully four months. Coal is at present the commanding article of the world. Assuredly "Coal is King." The present status of the fuel market in England is becoming more than serious; it is alarming; as it the fuel market in England is becoming more than serious; it is alarming, as i is weakening the backbone of the King dom. When coal must be imported lat Great Britain, the blow to manufactur ing is a most serious one.

THE MERCURY WRECKED.

The Old Sailing Vessel Sinks in Coo Strait After Being Abandoned.

Strait After Being Abandoned.

News was brought by the tug Wallowa, which has reached Seattle from Nome, of the wreck of the dismantled bark Mercury in Behring Sea. The bark was being towed to Seattle by the tug, and sprang a leak in a heavy gale. She was stripped of some machinery and abandoned in Cook Strait, where she sank. She was owned by Capt. E. Caine, of Seattle, and was sent to Nome last June in tow of a tug with a coal and lumber cargo. She had been condemned as a sailing vessel. She was built 49 years ago in New York as a full-rigged ship.

MARINE NOTES.

The German bark J. C. Pfluger, which put into San Francisco in distress, is being sold under the hammer there today.

A despatch from Neah Bay reports that the bark Klikitat, bound from Honolulu to Port Ludlow, had put in there in a disabled condition. Her royal and topgallant masts were gone, half of her topmast and her topsail yard had gone by the board. She had encountered a severe storm, but the despatch does not say in what locality.

THE WAR.

was on May 24th that the advance guard of Lord Roberts' army crossed the time to come. The enemy show signs of prolonging resistance of a guerifa nature. They have plenty of courage, and are much influenced by ignorance of the real nature of the change that has been forced upon them. They are slow to believe that under British rule they will be safe to carry on their usual avocations, and doubtless very many of them fear banishment, if taken with arms in their hands. The work of pacification will be difficult, and may occupy some months, and it may be necessary to take very strong measures to convince the rebels that their duty is to accep the fortunes of war. The operations around Ladybrand, where it is said that 2,000 Boers gathered, show that very little dependence can be placed upon the oaths of those who have made sub-mission. It is almost impossible that after Prinsloo's and Olivier's surrenders there can have been 2,000 fighting mer left, and therefore it seems probable that many of those, who had previously submitted and given their sworn promise not to fight, have taken the field again

FEDERAL POLITICS.

The Times suggests that Sir Wilfrid Laurier may be too British for Col. Prior and Mr. Earle. It is hardly necessary in Victoria to defend Messrs. Prior and Earle from any aspersions upon their loyalty to the British crown and their de votion to the interests of the Empire. But speaking of the attitude of the Conser vatives and Liberals respectively to-wards the Mother Country, may we ask the Times if it remembers the phrase:
"Not that he loved Caesar less, but that that he loved Rome more"?

The Conservative party yield to none in their devotion to the Sovereign and the Flag, but at the same time, they claim to have, and to have exhibited in the past, greater love for Canada than any others. They have been none the less Brittish because they have been more truly good as they stand. Undoubtedly some Canadian than their political opponents. In saying this we do not wish to reflect upon the patriotism of the Liberals. We are stating what is simply an his-with mining and are competent to sugtorical fact when we say that the Con- gest amendments to the laws relating to greater part of those who believed in the rights we are all very much in the dark. future of Canada. It is the descendant and heir-in-law of the party which carried Confederation, and thus cemented cast. It seems clear that a hard and fast British rule on this continent and made scale, applicable to every water power, a Dominion of imperial dimensions pos- will hardly do. It is impossible that in in any degree the part which the Liberals have played in developing Canadian sentiment and Imperial unity, but think no reasonable man, who knows the facts, will dispute the proposition that the greater part of this honorable work was done by the Conservatives.

The Times thinks it sees a disposition on the part of the Conservatives to direct attention in the forthcoming contest specially to local matters. It does not me in matters of local politics, but those questions which come most closely home to the people of British Columbia. Is not this right? Who will look after the interests of the people of British Columbia if they themselves do not? Surely we

We regard it to be the bounden duty of the people of the West to force Western issues to the front during the campeign. Let us instruct our representatives to press for render it useful to the government, the our interests at all times. Why should the Times be averse to the contest being run on local issues? Its party has been pointed, will be able to accomplish much in power for four years and has been good, and that experience will fully justiful to do just what it wished. Surely tify the action of the government in ask if it had done its duty to British Colum-bia it would welcome a struggle on lo-in the premises. cal issues. The Times knows quite well that only disappointment has attended the policy of the Liberal party in this province, and houce is is more than anxous to have the campaign run on issue bout which the voters here know little and care less.

CAPTURE OF ROD HILL.

To the ordinary layman the story of ow Rod Hill was captured is not pleas ant reading. We have been congratulating ourselves on the notion that Esqui malt was impregnable, and perhaps it is, but it is not agreeable to learn that, if the conditions which existed on Monday occurred in actual warfare, one of the principal defences of the mayal station would have fallen into the hands of the enemy. There is no use in saying that hese conditions are not likely to happen again, for every condition is possible in warfare, and it is not reassuring to know that the first time a supposedly hos tile force attempted to surprise the important battery at Rod Hill it was suc

It was conducted on much the same lines as a tournament. It had its rules, which is speedily restoring settled conditions.

THE PROPOSED COMMISSION.

The legislature has authorized the ap ointment of a commission to examin nto the working of the laws relating to mining and water rights. We understand that the personel of the commis sion will not be announced before th Premier's return from California. It will be noted that the scope of the commis sion's powers is dual, and some people will be of the opinion that the least talked-of branch, namely, that relating to water rights, is the more important of servative party attracted to itself the that industry, but on the subject of water The scale of charges is a subject upon which it is necessary to have some light We have no desire to depreciate many cases the same amount of horsepower can be developed at the same cost. It may happen that a very great amount of power may be obtained by a small expenditure in plant, while in smoother locality, owing to the conditions of the country, a smaller power will cost more. At first sight it seems as if there should be some relation between the cost of the power and the price charged for it. We mention this as one of the subjects with which the commission will probably have we do not altogether approve of the suppointment of commissions to investicate matters which will form the subject of legislation. There is something in in the contention that the government is responsible for the legislation of the country and must take the risk of initiating it. It is also quite true that relegislature would not necessarily be bound by the report of any commission. Nevertheless there are times when such inquiries, as a commission can make are desirable, and we think that the present is one of them, and that it is important to information of the government and legis-lature, and report them with such recommendations as they think proper. There is a lack of information upon both the subjects referred to the commission, or at least there is a lack of a compilation ing the house for the authority necessary

GERMANY IN CHINA.

What does Germany propose to do i No one knows just how to answer this question, which is one of the puzzles of the situation. As every one remembers, the Kaiser talked very strongly of what he proposed to do to revenge his minister's assessination Later it was reported that he had de cided to adopt a more moderate course but we notice that Count von Walderse continues on his way to Pekin, notwithstanding the cessation of hostilities and the Russian proposal that all the allieshall go home. The Count would hardly be sent to China if it were not intended to place at his disposal an army of some magnitude, and it is remarked in Ger many that preparations to despatch a force of 60,000 men or more to the Orient have not been interrupted.

There is a growing opinion that Ger many and Great Britain will act in concert, and that they have not the least notion of permitting Russia to work her sweet will in China. The attitude of the United States keeps people guessing One of the difficulties of the government of that country is the uncertainty ap parently inseparable from its foreign policy. That President McKinley would like to withddraw the United States troops from China may be taken for It would be a strong political eard at the forthcoming election to be able to say that, having established the security of American citizens in China, he had called the soldiers home. This may yet be done, but our American exchanges say that the orders to prepare for a winter campaign have not been countermanded, and that more ships of war are to be sent to the China station These facts, taken in connection with Germany's attitude, render the outlook very uncertain. We are inclined to re tell you in China, it will be necessary for Russia in her own interests to formally anne course indicates that some such event i anticipated.

THE SALMON INDUSTRY.

The Governor-General and Lady Minte visited S. A. Spenser's salmon cannery at Alert Bay and thoroughly inspected FOR EARLY FALL TRADE the whole process of handling the fish. Lady Minto paid particular attention to throughout, even gailing a salmon and was struck by the cleanliness of the whole process. The visit was unexpected, therefore no special preparations had been made for it, and everything was UNFAIR CRITICS. We observe in a London weekly de roted to Canadian interests a letter concerning the British Columbia govern-ment, in which the Dunsmuir government is described as a "stop-gap," and the suggestion is made that nothing much need be expected from it. The letter is anonymous. We suggest that no paper ought to print letters of this before the British public, he at least ought to sign his name to his effusions not only as a guarantee of good faith, but in order that people in British Columbia may be able to judge of his ability to form an opinion of any value. We have found, as a rule, that people who print opinions of others over a nom de plume are rarely of a class whose names would add anything to what they say, and this may be the reason why they shield themselves behind an unsigned letter. Editors ought to exercise a good deal of care in printing such letters, for harm may be done by them.

The British Columbia Mining Review, of London, says a cable has been laid to Atlin and Telegraph Bay. This sort of thing is inexcusable. If papers, which profess to keep the British public in-

City Council Decide By Six to Two Not to Adopt

The Governor-General Sends An Appreciative Letter to the Mayor.

This week's oft-adjourned meeting of the city council was held last night. On Monday evening the celebration of Labor Day had interfered; Tuesday night there was not a quorum, but last night business was resumed. After the eading of numerous communications and reports, the consideration of the new revenue by-law was again taken up and several clauses were passed. Of these the most important was that affecting the business licenses, where a most substantial change was made in the putting of all businesses, wholesale and retail, on a like plane and imposing a uniform tax of $10 per annum. To the section introducing the bicycle tax a good deal of consosition was manifested, with the of opposition was manifested, with the result that this much-discussed measure

Ald. Hall, Gooley, Yates, Stewart, Brydon, Cameron and Kinsman were present, together with Mayor Hayward, Clerk Dowler, City Solicitor Bradburn and City Engineer Topp.

The city clerk read the minutes of the previous meeting, which were then adopted, as were also minutes stating why there had been no sessions on Monday or Tuesday nights.

Before proceeding with the business of the meeting, Mayor Hayward placed on record his thankful recognition of the assistance lately rendered in the civic reception tendered to Lord and Lady Minto by all the citizens, and in particular by assistance lately rendered in the civic reception tendered to Lord and Lady Minto by all the citizens, and in particular by the members of the City band, the Fifth Regiment band, Mr. F. Victor Austin, the choir and amateur orchestra; Mrs. Janion, for a solo; the B. C. Electric Light Co., the Colonist, the Times, the police and fire departments, the civic officials, and Meesrs. Hitt Bros. It was probably not generally known, he explained, that the latter (Messrs. Hitt Bros.) had provided the pyrotechnic display on this occasion at their own cost and charges. Such, however, was the case. They had waited on him and expressed their own disappointment regarding some of the fireworks exhibitions of the earlier season, and had made the offer to provide the display of last week of their own accord. It was all the more noteworthy because of its excellence, of which Lord Minto had himself spoken. He then read the following letter from

Referred to the market committee for report.

Two bundles of tenders were then laid upon the table. These were all yet sealed. The ones for police clothing were referred to the purchasing agent and the finance committee, while those for the hauling of coal and the supply of wood for the pumping station were opened forthwith. They were as follows:
From F. H. Lindsay, of 55 Third street, for hauling the coals from the E. & N. railway station, $1 per long ton. For providing and delivering cordwood, 100 cords, at the rate of $3.50 per cord. From Peter Hansen, for hauling the coal at 95 cents per ton.

From Josiah Bull, for cordwood, to be delivered, 100 cords at $2.90.

Ald, Yates was about to move that one of these be accepted, when Ald. Cameron suggested that the tenders should not be accepted now, as he understood that the tenders were only wanted in order to assist in ascertaining whether coal or wood should be adopted for use at the pumping station, and the matter was stood over accordingly.

A report was then presented from the committee regarding the wiring of the pumping station, and the matter was stood over accordingly.

A report was then presented from the committee regarding the wiring of the street lighting and fire alarm systems. These systems needed separate inspection and repairs, as the breaks in either case, through a storm, might be expected to occur at the same time. It was moved that the charge of the fire alarm system be vested in the fire department and that for this Mr. Hutchison be retained in an advisory position only, but that he should have sole control of the wires of the lighting system. Adopted.

The report of the finance committee was then adopted. This recommended the payment of accounts for the past month to the extent of $2.923.52. These were passed in the usual way.

Ald. Yates' motion was then reached. It was as follows:

"That a special committee be appointed to confer with the city solicitor to enquire into and report as to what would be an equitable adjustment between the corporation of the city of Victoria and the owners of property on Broad street, of the cost of extending the said street."

It was as follows:

Meeting With Success.—The movement of a Soldiers' and Sallor's Home near Esquimals is making the owners of property on Broad street.

The mover thought that, while one suit to enforce the amount of this cost, which had been charged against the adjacent property, had been entered and was still in progress, it must be recognized that the city was responsible for a part of the cost, and he hoped to see a fair and equitable arrangement reached.

Ald, Cameron thought the motion somewhat premature. They should wait not the thing to hamper their solicitor. He had been instructed to suc. and this motion looked very like an attempt to effect a compromise behind his back.

Ald, Kinsman thought that as the city market had been much improved in val

His Honor considered that if a committee should be appointed they should be very careful not to commit the city to anything that would weaken her position. They should work with the city solicitor, rather than at cross-purposes with their former instructions.

Ald. Yates said that he was not reflecting on the city solicitor. A matter of delay would do no harm. The defendant would not object to it.

Ald. Cameron opposed it before and would continue to do. He believed in good roads, but not in good roads of this sort. The section, too, was not well drawn. It showed defects in details; the renters of wheels were not provided for, neither were children's velocipedes. He was sure it would cause friction, trouble and annoyance, and that all over $1. In the passage of the next section it was provided that all taxes should be due and payable on the 16th of January in each and every year.

When the question of license fees was reached, Ald. Yates inquired why in the case of restaurant-keepers invidious distinction was made against whiskey. These people were to be allowed to sell le, wine or porter, but why could a hungry man not have a glass of whiskey with his meal. with his meal.

The section was, however, adopted without amendment, the alderman being informed that this was the wording and practice in England.

Over the business tax quite a discussion arose. It was proposed to make this uniform and only $10.

Ald. Stewart complained that this tax was only found here. It did not exist in the rest of the province, nor even further east. It was sometimes quite a hardship. Houses with branches in

WOMAN IN MEDICINE.

The following paper read before the Woman's Council is by Mrs. H. Macken-zie Cleland, M. D., C. M. Licentiate of the Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons, Edinburgh, and of the Faculty of Physicians and Surgeons, Glasgow;

By right of inheritance the care of the sick is woman's province. Through all ages it has been the wife, the mother the daughter, the sister who performed the duty of nursing the sick; always dis-playing courage, patience and enormous powers of endurance, and ministering to their needs with all the tact, tenderness, of delay would do no harm. The defendant would not object to it.

Ald, Brydon would feel better if the matter was referred to the city solicitor. He could not but think that it looked as though the council was deserting its solicitor.

The Mayor thought that all were about agreed that the city should meet a portion of the bill, and he thought that the appointment of such a committee might lead to a speedy settlement, besides suring the costs of litigation.

The motion was then put and carried, upon the following division:

Ayes: Ald. Hall, Cooley, Stewart, Yates, Williams and Kinsman—6.

Nays: Ald. Cameron and Brydon—2.
Mayor Hayward then appointed as the committee Ald. Yates, Cameron and Brydon, A little laughter following the explanation that it was an importuat matter, requiring good men, and he had made his choice before he had heard their opinions on the subject.

Ald. Yates then enquired about another motion of his, regarding the B. C. Electric Railway Co. He had left it at the office down-stairs to be posted up, but the clerk explaining that he had were seen it, the paper appeared to have been lost.

The council then went into committee of the whole to resume consideration of the revenue by-law. The bleyde tax the office downstants to but the clerk explaining that he had never seen it, the paper appeared to have been lost.

The council then went into committee of the whole to resume consideration of the revenue by-law. The bicycle tax was first reached. Regarding this section, Ald. Brydon enquired how a part of a street could be set apart for bicyclists. It might be necessary to take chists. It might be necessary to take the whole of the people, and so he would oppose the imposition of this tax.

Ald. Hall spoke to like effect.

Ald. Stewart thought that they should consider the matter. They had received a petition of 270 names on it, favoring the tax, and another of 210 names against it. He believed in better roads than they had, and if the tax were to be thrown into the general revenue fund and the streets well kept it would be a good thing.

Ald. Yates supported the tax and detailed the proposition of the bicyclists. The only thing was that the tax was too small; $2 would be much better.

Ald. Brydon thought it would be but abone of contention if the section were passed.

Ald Brydon thought that they had not they had, and again asked how would they keep others off the strip. He rode a good deal and wished the roads were better. children, symms, etc., and some control holding the responsible position of chief officers in these institutions. During the Spanish American war a woman physician received the appointment as officer in entire charge of the examination and assignment to duty of all the women and some parts of the Justice and the army. In Germany and some parts of the United States, women physicians are appointed as the health of men hold many public offices—some in freets—and why not?

Public health is now one of the Important branches of our medical education, and it is one of the encouraging features of the present time that an antelligent interest is being taken in the subject by people generally, who are becoming more and more concerned with it in everyday life. Naturally this is a work for which women doctors are peculiarly fitted, centuries of domestic occupation in which the woman was the housekeeper and health officer of the family, having bred in her an instinctive love of order, clean-lines and beauty; and as a physician she does not lose that inate desire to make her surroundings pleasing and attractive. If the sphere of influence on public life may be daily expanded by extending the art tof which she has such special knowledge, of making the home orderly, healthful and beautiful—to circles far beyond the home—and in this way she becomes a great factor in "ordering, the someoning and the beautiful adornment of the state"; and in this progressive age when prominence is given to women's work, socially, intellectually and scientifically, the comparatively few who are not willing to accept the idea of woman and that the judgment of this, the new era, differs from theirs. It ion as an inferior—(the result wholly of a turbulent state of society), was generally, but wrongfully, held to be her true one.

In due time, education, agitation, and the natural evolution of a high order of civilization produced an improved condition, and with the dawn of the nine-teenth century we find women again in the forefront of modern thought, and among other things demanding the restoration of equal educational facilities. The battle has been a long one—hard fought, and the onward movement in all civilized countries for the higher education of women, as one of the distinctive notes of the latter half of the nineteenth century.

Naturally a more ready response to the appeal of women was made by the younger communities, less weighted with traditions and customs; and the first Women's Medical College was opened in Philadelphia in 1850. The first to admit women to medical education, and the first to recognize the equality of women with men in the scientific study of medicine. In 1853 Dr. Blackwell opened the New York Medical College for Women. Some years later the University of Paris opened its doors to the medical examination of women, St. Petersburg following its example; and so one after another the time honored seats of learning in the older countries have been removing the barriers, and welcoming women to their lecture halls and degrees; until now no degree desirable in any of the great schools of medicine is withheld.

It is not at all surprising themselves of their privileges. In Edinburgh, since the Royal Infirmary admits women, the finest clinical teaching is received, and there are about two hundred women students—a still greater number at the London schools; besides those who study at Dublin, Glasgow, Leeds, Manchester and other small schools. In America, John Hopkins, the most exacting, best equipped, and the most advanced medical college on the continent, has a large class of women attending, besides numbers to be found at many of the other well known medical schools. This is the result of the effort of capable and efficient wardens, appointed by a commission in charge of the department of fish and game in Maine, unhampered by politics and free to select men, be they red, white, or black, Republican or Democratic, so long as they are convinced that they are honest and canable.

in the State's history, as puone recorus, and all sportsmen who visit Maine, will attest.

Remarkable as have been the results, it is still more remarkable that the first practical step toward the present method was made so recently as the year 1896, when Chairmen Carleton, of the Commission, who had just received his appointment decided to break up the conditions that had prevailed at Bangor, the centre of ail railroad lines leading to and from the big game districts.

For years it had been well-known that the market men there were shipping out great quantities of deer, moose, caribou, and partridges to Boston and New York, but no noe had ever been able to stop them. It was well known, too, that many deer were being taken out of the State contrary to law. To stop this Mr. Carleton was determined, and so well was this work effected that within six weeks the market-men were though atempting to ship game, for a large number had been before the court and paid fines for their vioiations, while the others, though they had escaped detection, had had considerable game seized which had cost them much money, The wardens had also prosecuted a number of railroad men engaged in taking deer out of the game country to sell, and matters in the twinkling of an eye almost, by efficiency and honest effort, began to take, on a different aspect in Bangor.

Fortunately in Maine the wardens had by law already the right to search any quently amongst the women who profess to be enthusiastic advocates of woman's advancement:—consistency to their principles could be so beautifully expressed by showing in a tangible manner their appreciation of the efforts and sacrifices of the woman physician, whose sacred mission yields precedence only to the church—in extending, especially to the young practitioner, that practical endorsement and recognition for which she so often hungers, and which is so much more encouraging than an unlimited amount of abstract eulogy. aspect in Bangor.

Fortunately in Maine the wardens had by law already the right to search any and all baggage, express or freight mater, which they had renson to believe had game concealed in it. It was this authority that they used. They made every sportsman who had game on the trains from the country identify it—not that he had to pick out his particular deer, but he had to show that he was there, going through with the game. When a deer was found for which no owner could be located, it was seized and sold, the proceeds going into the fish and lowner could be located, it was seized and sold, the proceeds going into the fish and game fund of the State. While one warden attended to this, the other went through all the baggage, and seized everything of a contrabrand nature. In that manner they soon had every man who went into the woods impressed with the fact that it would be useless to attempt to take game out of the State contrary to law. The Result of Having Efficient to take game out of the State contrary to law.

The new wardens then made, and do now, frequent visits to the railroad and steamboat freight sheds, carefully examining any suspicious packages. In this way they soon secured the necessary evidence to break up the shipping of game by the market-men for once a lot of game was found, it was comparatilely easy to trace it back to the market from which it started. In this way the trouble soon stopped, for though they did not succeed in finding the shipper in every case, yet the seizure of a few lots broke the market-man'e heart, and he quit the gameshipping business. It no longer paid, and "pay" is the poncher's corner stone.

The present wardens are all experienced woodswards and back been and "pay" is the poacher's corner stone.

The present wardens are all experienced woodsmen and guides, and have been appointed because of that and of their known desire to protect game. During the summer months they travel through and through the hunting and fishing region in their canoes, making long journeys of from 150 to 200 miles. They work in pairs, and they know the country through which they travel as well naturally into two irreconcilable and an tagnostic bodies, the sportsmen and the peacher; both of them, curiously enough interested in the maintenance of a good stock of game and fish. One body requires it because it tends toward the common weal through the preservation and restoration of health, and because it ministers to the pleasures of thousands; the other body requires it so that they may minister to their individual purses, at the expense of the public.

In the beginning of the struggle between these elements there was no general check. The state was indifferent excepting so far as the poncher trespassed upon, and injured, or destroyed, the private property in game or fish which some wealthy man owned as a preserve He for the protection of his own rights, employed game-keepers, just as he might have employed watchers of his poultry yard.

JEROME'S DOG STORY

A great many burglaries had lately taken place in our neighborhood, and father came to the conclusion that it was time he bought a dog. He thought a bulldog would be the best for his purpose, so he purchased the most savage and myndrous leading greating that he and murderous-looking specimen that he pose, so he purchased the most savage and murderous-looking specimen that he could find.

My mother was alarmed when she saw the dog. "Surely you're not going, to let that brute loose about the hou'se!" she exclaimed. "He'll kill somebody. I can see it in his face."

"I want him to kill somebody." replied my father; "I want him to kill burglars."

"I don't like to hear you talk like that, Thomas," answered mother. "It's not like you. We've a right to protect our property, but we've no right to take a fellow-human creature's life."

"Our fellow-human creature's life."

"Our fellow-human creature's will be all right so long as they don't come into our kitchen when they've no business there," retorted my father somewhat testily, "I'm going to fix up this dog in the seullery, and if a burglar comes fooling around—well that's his affair."

The 'old folks quarreled on and off for about a month over this dog. The dad thought the matter abourdly sentimental, and the matter thought the dad unnecessarily vindictive. Meanwhile the dog grew more ferocious-looking every day.

One night my mother woke my father up with: "Thomas, there's a burglar downstairs, I'm positive. I distinctly heard the kitchen door open."

"Oh, well, the dog's got him by now, then," murmured my father, who had heard nothing and was sleepy.

"Thomas," replied my mother severely, "I'm not going to lie here while a fellow-creature is being murdered by a savage benst. If you don't go down and save that man's life I will."

"Oh, bother," said my father, preparing to get up. "You're always faneying you hear noises. I believe that's all you women come to bed for—to sit up and listen for burglars." Just to satisfy her, however, he pulled on his trousers and socks and went down.

Well, sure enough, my mother was right this time. There was a burglar in the house. The pantry window stood open, and a light was shining in the kitchen. My father crept softly forward and peeped through the partly open door. There sat the burglar, eating cold beef and pickles, and the trainer from whom we had bought it

"What do you think I wanted this dog for?" asked my father, trying to speak calmly.

"Well," replied the trainer, "you said you wanted a good house dog."

"Exactly so," answered the dad. "I didn't say I wanted a dog who'd chum with a burgiar the first time he ever came to the house, and sit with him while he had his supper, in case he might feel lonesome, did 1?" And my father recounted the incidents of the previous night.

The man agreed that there was some feel lonesome, did Y?" And my father recounted the, incidents of the previous night.

The man agreed that there was some cause for complaint. "I'll tell you what it is, sir," he said. "It was by boy Jim as trained this ere dawg, and I guess the young beggar's taught 'im more about tackling rats than burglars. You leave 'im with me for a week, sir; I'll put that all right."

We did so, and at the end of the time the trainer brought him back again. "You'll find 'im game enough now, sir," said the man. "E ain't what I call an intellectual dawg, but I think I've knocked the right idea into 'im."

My father thought he'd like to test the matter, so we hired a man for a shilling to break in through the kitchen window, while the trainer held the dog by a chain. The dog remained perfectly quiet until the man was fairly inside. Then he made one savage spring at him, and if the chain had not been stout the fellow would have earned his shilling dearly.

The dad was satisfied, now that he could go to bed in peace; and the mater's alarm for the safety of the local burglars was proportionately increased.

Months passed uneventfully by, and then another burglar sampled our house. This time there could be no doubt that the dog was doing something for his living. The din in the basement was terrific. The house shook with the concussion of falling bodies.

My father snatched up his revolver and rushed downstairs, and I followed him. The kitchen was in confusion. Tables and chairs were overturned, and on the floor lay a man gurgling for help. The dog was standing over him, choking him.

The pater held his revolver to the man's ear, while I, by superhuman effort, dropping the revolver, "how ever did you come here?"

"Ow did I come here?" retorted the man, sitting up and speaking in a tone of bitter but not unnatural indignation.
"Why, in the course of my duty, that's 'ow I come 'ere. I see a burglar getting in through the window, so I just follows my gentleman and slips in after 'im."
"Did you catch him?" asked my father.
"Did I catch 'im!" almost shricked the man. "Ow could I catch 'im with that blasted dog of yours 'olding me down by the throat, while 'e lights 'is pipe and walks out by the back door?"
That dog was for sale the next day.

THE RETURN OF OUR BOYS.

What do the maples whisper and say
To the roses blooming around?
What do the roses whispering tell
To the laurels that over them sway?
The maple says to the list'ning rose.

The maple says to the list ning rose, My heroes they are soon coming here, So ask the bright laurels to join In the hearty and welcoming cheer; And weave for the conquerors, crowns Evensting, unfading and green; And beg from the cypress some tears For the graves that we never have seen.

For joy must be tempered with sorrow,
And pride must be chastened by grief,
For hopes that are blooming to day
Are withered and faded to-morrow.
But grief shall be turned into pride,
And tears be out-blotted by joys,
When standing once more side by side
We grasp the dear hands of our boys.

WEEKLY WEATHER SYNOPSIS.

Meteorological Office,

Victoria, B.C., Aug. 29, to Sept. 4, 1900.
During the first day of the week the atmospheric pressure gave way over the Northern portion of the province, the weather becoming cloudy on the Coast, and continuing so during Thursday, when indications of an ocean low area appeared which the same night developed causing rain throughout the Province; Barkerville reporting on Friday morning a very heavy fall of 1.98 inches during the 24 hours. Showers and thunderstorms were also general throughout the Canadian Northwest Territories. The barometer then began to rise again and a fair spell of weather prevailed in this district during Saturday, Sunday and Monday, though light rain fell at Barkerville during the first two days. On Monday evening an area of tow presure appeared off Vancouver Island causing cloudy weather and threatening rain. On Tucsday the barometer began to rise again at this point and at the close of this week fairer weather again succeeded.

The winds throughout the week haive been light to moderate on the Coast attaining, however, velocities of 30 and 40 miles an hour in the western part of the Territories on the 31st August.

Victoria reports a little over 48 hours of bright sunshine, and an insufficient quantity of rain to be measured. The highest temperature, 60.8, occurred on the 2nd Sept., and the lowest, 40.2, on Sept. 1st.

New Westimisater reports rainwall 10 inch, highest temperature 74 on 29th, lowest 49 on Sept. 2nd.

The following is a summary of weather

ept. 2nd.
The following is a summary of weather Rainfall.

The rainfall in Barkerville is unprecented. In Victoria the record of bright sunshin was 227 hours; much below the average.

The highest temperature during August was 73.2 on the 19th; the lowest 44.1 on the 26th and the mean temperature for the whole month was 57.83.

Inland Sentinel. From Inland Sentinel.

Mr. John Cobledick, manager of the Cobledick New Zealand gold dredge on the Fraser near Lytton, reports that the dredge has been in operation for the past month and that he is more than satisfied with the results attained. The dredge is in operation every hour of the twenty-four the men working three shifts. Every twenty-four hours 1,500 cubic yards of gravel is taken from the bottom of the stream and passed over the treating the twenty-four the men to the working three shifts. Every gravel is taken from the bottom of the tables. This may not appear a large proported the restrict of the stream and passed over the treating the proportion of the twenty-four the men to the stream and passed over the treating the prospective for the stream and passed over the treating the prospective for the court.

Proceedings at September Sitting of Full Court, Which Began Yesterday,

The List of Cases to Be Called To-day-Proceedings In Chambers.

The September sitting of the Full court began yesterday morning before Justice Walkem, Drake and Irving, Chief Jus tice McColl was not present, being expected this morning. Little, however, was done except to grant leave to set down the additional appeal cases of Lovell v. Brackman & Ker, and McCann v. Wellman, for hearing at this session.

These, with the two appeals from the Territorial court at Dawson, bring up the list to one of seven cases. An applicaan appeal in the case of Bird v. Veith was also granted, the time being extended until the next sitting of this court tered:

Eastman v. Pemberton, an appeal arising out of a scizure made by Sheriff Pemberton of certain goods of the estate of Messrs. Gain & Roy, of Grand Forks, which are also claimed by one Eastman is assignee of the estate. McCann v. Wellman will also be heard.

To-morrow the following cases will be called:

stream and passed over the treating tables. This may not appear a large amount at first sight, but when it is understood that this means in the neighborhood of 2,000 tons dead weight, and that during the day over 10,000 tons of water are used in the washing process, it will be evident to anyone that the working of the dredge is an undertaking of great magnitude.

Mr. Cobledick says the mechanical part of the dredge is perfection, but that owing to the complicated nature of the gold saving apparatus some changes will be made from time to time as the needs sity is demonstrated. It is possible to move the entire dredge from side to side of the river (which is 1,000 feet wide) in five minutes.

Operations will be continued as long as the weather will allow, which may be all winter. The only difficulty in the way of winter operation will be frost, which would not allow the free passage of water over the treating tables. Gold is now being brought to the surface and recovered in encouraging quantities and there is little doubt but that when the experimental stage has been passed the dredge will be a good paying proposition.

Senator Campbell describes the present condition of the Miocene mine. letter is written from Harper's Camp, Horsefly, under date of August 24. He writes:

"I was very well pleased with the prospect we got in our first upraise from the 550-foot level, but was satisfied that Holly, Box, Chestnut, Marnolla, Tullp, we were not in the main channel; this Junipers, Pines, Japan Maples, Monkey Puzzles and various other beautiful trees tending the main tunnel 100 feet from and shrubs for sale. Building lots also, the first upraise and where we got our J. S. HELMCKEN, first prospect, we made a second up-raise. In this we broke through all of a sudden into a tremendous, fine body of gravel; the water and gravel came with such a rush that the men were driven out and couldn't get into the upraise again. It had to be bulk-headed to prevent the tunnel flooding; only a very little of the gravel could be secured from this. It showed well in gold. We then started a drive from floor of main tunnel, with the intention of striking the gravel at another point, but when in about 25 feet and still in bedrock, the upraise broke in afresh and flooded us, so we were compelled to pull out.

We were not surprised at this; in fact, we expected to be flooded at any moment. At the same time we hoped to be able to determine the extent and value of the bottom gravel without having to instal a pumping plant for handling bedrock water, for the reason that we did not know how much of a plant would be required to handle it.

Of course we would have liked to explore it some more before stopping, but plore it some more before stopping, but I am well satisfied now that we have a very rich and extensive mine here, and as soon as the company decides upon what kind of a plant to put in, work will be resumed.

as soon as the company decides upon what kind of a plant to put in, work will be resumed.

"The exploiting of this deep, ancient channel has proved to be much greater than at first anticipated, but I never once believed for a moment that the bottom of this immense channel could be otherwise than very rich. Being the first to sink on it, we had to feel our way without knowing the depth or what would be encountered. We have also had two very unfavorable seasons for this kind of work; the continuous rains have kept the roads in an impassable condition and made it almost impossible to bring in machinery and supplies.

"If your new government can only cause zero to come at once, business may proceed, and it will save time and money and trouble trying to make roads where it is next to an impossible thing to do.

"The community can rest assented.

The community can rest assured that there is plenty of gold here in the Horseily channels, and they will be worked very extensively. It is a big proposition opening them up, but it be done."

THE LABOR QUESTION.

Situation at Rossland Discussed by War

In an interview published in the Ros and Record a few days ago, Mr. T. G. Blackstock, vice-president of the War Eagle and Centre Star mining companies, is reported as follows on the labor question:

labor question:

"There are lots of things I'd like to talk about," was Mr. Blackstock's greeting to the Record representative. "For a period it was thought expedient to remain silent on some matters of importance here, and say nothing concerning the manugement of the War Eagle and Centre Star, but in my opinion the time for plain speaking has arrived, and it is not only permissible but necessary that our views should be known by this community of miners and merchants.

"We have no quarrel with the miners' union or any other combination of workers. I do not believe in attempting to fight labor organizations, as it is a

We have no quarrel with the miners' union or any other combination of workers. I do not believe in attempting to fight labor organizations, as it is a lone-sided contest from the start. The situation, as we found it up to a certain point last year, was a perfectly intolerable one, and we will never submit to it again, no matter what the result may be. Our expenses had grown out of all proportion to the results attained, and I believe that it was quite true that we had become the laughing stock of all mining men owing to the mistaken course we adopted. For the future, let me tell you plainly, the mines will be worked upon the strictest business principles, and in favor of the shareholders. Do not misunderstand me; we will pay good wages to good men, but we will insist that the wages paid are carged. I am not making any extravogant state.

YOH-FEI.

How a General of China Was Dealt With Eight Centuries Ago.

With Eight Centuries Ago.

At this present, when China and Chinese politics are at the fore of discussion, it may give us food for thought if we lift the curtain of some eight centuries back and tell how conspirators were dealt with in those old days. To the west of Hangchow, on a rising ground overlooking a beautiful and picturesque lake, is a small building, the gateway of which shuts off the tombs of a brave general and his no less celebrated son. The circular mounds, especially of the sire, is some 80 feet in circumference, with a height of 15 feet. The son's is much smaller. Marble figures in double row, much defaced by age, lead up to the resting place of Yoh-Fei and son. On each side of the gateway are stone cages, in which are placed iron figures, male and female, in each cage, on their knees, in a supplicating attitude, looking in the direction of the tombs. I am indebted to a missionary gentleman of the Church of England for many particulars of this great General Yoh Fei, and my notes say that in the first year of Kaou-tsung (A, D, 1127) of the Sung dynasty, Yoh Fei, with Wong Yan and other marshals, eleven in all, were under the orders of Tseang So. The infantry had just then crossed the Ho to Sin-heang, but the troops of the Kin Tartar being numerous and powerful, Yen was afraid to advance. numerous and powerful, Yen was afraid numerous and powerful, Yen was afraid to ndvance.

Yoh Fel nione led the troops of his command to battle, took the great standard with ease, all his soldiers vicing with each other in martial fury, and presently recovered Sin-Heang. The cantrer he beat the men of Kin in Kwong-te, Tsin An, and other places, and won merit in verey action. In the tenth month of the fourth year the Kin people suffered Tsin Kwei to return (to Hangchow). In the second month of the second month of the seventh year, Yoh Fei, being seven foos north of the Ho, and west of the capital, was advanced to the rank of thae-wei. Fei in his youth was under the orders of Tsin (i. c., Chang Tsin). But now, his rank being the same as Tsin's, the latter conceived a grudge against him. In the fifth month of the tenth year he obtained an edict directed to Le Yaou Hen, to order Fei to disband his army. Fei having given the enemy a great beating at Yen Chin, had sent his son Yun with the cavalry to cut them up. In the intercalary fifth month, at a place called Choo-Seen-Chen, Fei received the edict to disband. In one day envoys bearing the official tablets of the Twelve Golden Characters came and degraded Fei to be a mere Foo-sze.

Tsin Kwei was now pressing negotiations for pence (i. c. with the Kin), and to advance Characters came and degraded Fei to be a mere Foo-sze.

Tsin Kwei was now pressing negotiations for peace (i. e., with the Kin), and, fearing that the Choo-seang (marshal) would be hard to restrain, he wished to take over the whole of his military command. This was the reason of the ordinance. In the ninth month he (Tsin Kwei) got an order to throw Yoh Fei into the great prison, and with Chang Tsin and Muh-Cho-See, devised plans for his death. In the eleventh month the treaty of peace was concluded, and Tsin Kwei put to death the shaou-pavu, Ken-Meih, foo-sze, Woo-Chang Kung, Yoh-Fei, and destroyed Yun and Chang Heen (son and son-in-law of Yoh) in the common market. The treachery of Tsin Kwei was discovered, and Sung Hsiao Tsung, son of Knou Tsung, is said to hove decreed the honors to Yoh Fei and son, and disgrace to Tsin and his accomplices. The Tai Ping rebels who seized Hangchow, in anger decapitated the iron figures whose mutilated images lay about the court. Fresh enges with iron figures, whose mutilated images lay about the court. Fresh enges with iron figures were re-cast in 1865 and replaced in their position. The Kin or Kin Tartars were the ancestors of the present Manchus. They overran the north of China as far as the Yellow river during the Tsung dynasty, and at length drove the Sung emperors (two of whom became their prisoners) across the Yangtse to Hanzehow, where they held their court at the time of Yoh. After a time the Mongol or Western Tantars were invited to expel the Kin, which they did; but instead of re-establishing the Sung, first made themselves masters of North China (Cathay) and afterwards drove the Sung family from Hangehow.

om Belleville Times. From Belleville Times.

It was an unfortunate day for Canada when Mr. Tarte was placed in control of the department of public works, the greatest spending department of the Canadian government. It was unfortunate because Mr. Tarte is a man with professed ideas of expenditure. "Wait till you see us next year" was his reply to protests against extravagance. But when Mr. Tarte went away on sick leave he was succeeded temporarily by Hen. William Mulock, postmaster-general bungler.

"I William" proved himself a worthy successor. Lest any of the ravenous ones among the faithful should be by ones among the faithful should be by their own negligence overlooked in the distribution of spoils, Mr. Mulock sent out to the Grit leaders in the various constituencies a confidential circular to this effect:

this effect:

"My Dear Sir,—During Mr. Tarte's absence I have been requested to take charge of his department for him, and it would be of great service in enabling me to take up his work if you would meet me at your earliest convenience with reference to the following subjects:

"I For what works in your constitute." "1. For what works in your constituency has there been a parliamentary te?

"2. Have these works been begun?
so, in what state of progress are vote?

"2. Have these works been begun?
If so, in what state of progress are they?

"3. If not begun, what is your advice as to whether they should be begun?

"4. Are you asking for provision being made in the supplementary estimates for (a) new works; (b) carrying on or completion of works already authorized or begun? If so, what are your views (a) as to sum required; (b) as to what work should be performed?

"5. In case of any work not now under contract, but authorized by vote of parliament, please state whether you advise its being carried out by contract or by day labor."

Thus were the constituencies deliberately debauched by inviting the expenditure of public monies. Mr. Tarte set a good precedent by handing out a dredging contract to the editor of an obscure Grit weekly newspaper in Ontario and to a notary public in Quebec, and these were but specimens of the jobbery of the pure Grit administration. It has been going on continuously, and it is not surprising that the honest men in the Grit party have revolted against such work.
